The Register and the Maryland Elections.

The Register insinuates that our denunciations of the Baltimore farce, called an election, proceed from the fact that the Know Nothings were victorious .-Such instruction is unjust, and is not founded on truth. It is not to the K. N. majority we object, but to the mode of obtaining that majority, viz: by deterring peaceable Democrats from going to the polls, as they preferred losing their votes to jeoparding their lives. The Register also comments on our language, making us say we hoped the Governor would shoot down the whole spawn of "Sam." Now we said no such thing. We said we hoped he would, if nec essary, shoot down Plug Uglies, &c., for the purity of the ballot-box was a consideration of higher import than the lives of all the rowdies in Baltimoreand we say so yet; and deducting the vote of the rowdies, such spawns of "Sam" as the Plug Uglies, Rip Raps, &c., and taking away the terror they inspired, we have no doubt there would have been left a Democratic majority.

The Register and other K. N. papers are welcome to all the glory they can get out of the Baltimore election-the glory of blood-shed, riot and a forcible possession of the polls, to the exclusion of Democrat-

But the Register wants to know what we think of Gov. Ligon's withdrawing his proclamation, and ceasing his efforts to have a military force present to preserve order and insure a fair election. We think he did wrong-we think he was deceived by the promises of the K. N. Mayor, as all who put trust in promises from such a source will be deceived.

But the Register asks what we think of Governor Wise's loaning arms to Gov. Ligon; and says it wants an "explicit answer," and indulges in a direful threat if it does not get it. We will give it an "explicit answer." We think Gov. Wise was as justifiable in loaning arms to Gov. Ligon to prevent riots and blood-shed, as North-Carolinians were in carrying North-Carolina arms into Southampton, Va., to suppress an insurrection of the negroes.

The truth is, our cotemporary is in poor business attempting to defend and justify the conduct of the K. N's of Baltimore. He is worthy of better employment; and we feel sure there are other themes for his pen more congenial to his feelings and less liable to deserved censure-distribution, for in-

SECRETARY OF STATE - We learn that the Governor, by and with the advice of his council, on Tuesday last, appointed Rufus H. Page, of this City, Secretary of State, to fill the unexpired term of Win. Hill, deceased. Mr. Page has been a clerk in the office for eighteen years, and as deputy, has discharged nearly the entire duties of the office for the last twelve months. He is a worthy man, a good Democrat, and will make a faithful and efficient officer. Without disparagement to the other gentlemen whose names were mentioned in connexion with the office. (any one of whom would have made a good officer,) we may say that Mr. Page, being thoroughly acquainted with the business of the office, will be enabled to discharge his duties with promptness and in a manner satisfactory to all concerned.

There were only four of the seven councillors present, viz : Capt. John Walker, of Meck'enburg, Gen. C. M. Avery, of Burke : W. D. Bethel, Esq., of Rockingham; and Col. N. M. Long, of Halifax.

"IMPORTANT FACTS."- We call the attention of our readers to the article with the above heading in this paper. It seems to us that the Committee of the American Tract Society have pursued a wise course, and one that will restore that harmony so necessary for the usefulness of the Society, and which was so seriously threatened. The plain line of its duty consists in its non interference with slavery, and any other course would produce disruption and destroy its power for good. As now conducted, it is a worl in which all Christians, no matter of what denomination, can unite; and in which all, North and South. saint and sinner, can aid.

CORN AGAIN .- Mr. Dabney Cosby has left at our office a few ears of corn raised by Wm. Rand, Esq., of this county, which are very large, long and well filled; and what is very curious, some of the ears are surrounded by a cluster of "nubbins," all covered by the same shuck, but of a distinctly different kind of corn from the large ear. On one ear there are six of these "nubbins," or short ears, Verily this is a great year for great ears of corn. If any others have samples let them bring them along. We want enough for a grist. Tears of beauty are like light clouds floating over a heaven of stars, bedimming them for a moment that they may shine with a greater lustre than be-

It will be seen from the above that the black republicans are in a minority of seven thousand seven hundred and sixty in the State. The legislature stands as follows:

MELANCHOLY AND FATAL ACCIDENT .- We learn by the messenger of Adams & Co's Express, that on Thursday afternoon last, Paul Sparrow, of Franklinton, (formerly of Newbern,) aged about 14 years, came to his death under very distressing circumstances. He was out gunning in the vicinity of his home, and feeling tired stopped to rest. In laying down his loaded gun, he accidently struck the hammer against a log, which caused the piece to explode and lodge the entire contents in his forehead, shattering his skull dreadfully and causing instantaneous death. The deceased was a stepson of the Rev. T. B. James.

PROMOTED AND APPOINTED .- Mr. Obadiah Woodson has been promoted to a second class ($1,400 per annum) clerkship in the office of the Second Auditor of the Treasury, vice Mr. C. Cowing, of Indiana,

We know Obadiah well, (we used to call him "Obe," but that wouldn't do now,) and there is no man more deserving of promotion. Washington City contains no more worthy, faithful and efficient

Death of Samuel Whitaker, Esq.

Samuel Whitaker, Esq., died at his residence in this county, after an illness of several months, on the 5th inst., aged 78 years.

Mr. Whitaker was sheriff of Wake county for several years during his younger days, and had served in both branches of the Legislature for a period of 27 years. He had been a member of the M. E. Church for more than 50 years.

DUPLIN FAIR.-A correspondent of the Wilmington Journal gives a very fine account of the Duplin county Agricultural Fair; and speaks in high terms of the address of our set jor. The Fair, we should judge, was entirely successful in every respect; and the address, we know, was good. It will be pub-

The first article is from the pen of Rev. F. M. Hubbard, who contends that Gov. Caswell was the commander at Moore's Creek Bridge.

Congress .- The political complexion of the next Congress will be as follows: Senate, 35 Democrats, 25 K. N's and black Republicans, and 2 vacancies. House of Representatives, 127 Democrats, 15 K. N's, and 92 black Republicans.

IMPORTANT FACTS-PROOF-SHEET OF THE "DUTIES OF MASTERS"-MISTAKES COR-

MESSES. EDITORS: Statements in some respects erroneous in reference to this proposed treatise having been made in several papers, the following facts are submitted for such as care to know them.

For many months previous to May, 1856, the Independent, the Congregationalist at Boston, the Re-ligious Herald at Hartford, the Congregational Herald at Chicago, and perhaps other papers, had inti-mated that the American Tract Society, by refraining from issuing specific Tracts on slavery, virtually upheld the system. This objection the Committee believed lay with at least equal force against the Bi-ble it-elf, but in their Annual Report then presented they said, that should a tract referring to "duties," or "evils" connected with this subject be laid before them, which promised usefulness, and "in which evangelical Christians, north and south, would agree," they "knew no reason why it should not be approved and published."

Soon after that anniversary the Rev. Dr. Young of Kentucky seut to the Committee his sermon on the "Duties of Masters," preached and printed in Danville some twelve years since, hoping it might be acceptable to Christians throughout the country. The copy of the sermon being detaced and scarcely legible, proofs were taken for examination by the several members of the Committee, and others they might wish to consult. Their attention was also soon called to a pastoral address by Bishop Meade of Virginia on the same subject, which, without his knowledge, and with the addition of three short ex tracts from Rev. Dr. C. C. Jones and others, was combined with the sermon, and a proof of the whole was confidentially submitted to the authors and to several officers and friends of the Society in different parts of the country for their counsel.

The replies received were various. Bishop Meade expressed his judgment as unfavorable to the Socie ty's issuing his own address or any thing on the subject in the present state of the country. One layman and one clergyman assented to the publication of the treatise, and Rev. Dr Smyth not long after wrote a note commending it to the attention of his southern brethren, and sent part of a sermon of Dr. Adger, both of which were also combined in the treatise. Several to whom it was sent expressed their judgment that there were insuperable obstacles to the society's issuing it; and one State Auxilia v add essed to the Society's Special Committee of Fifteen a formal and carnest remonstrance against it.

The question of issuing the treatise was thus pending when the Special Committee of Fifteen met, and on the request of one of their number to see it it was furnished to all their members, each copy endorsed, "Proof for the Committee," or words to that effect. But that Committee took no action on the document, and expressed no opinion as to the propriety of the Society's issuing it.

On the well-known alarm awakened at the south by the Report of the Special Committee, the venerable bishop in connection with Rev. Dr. Jones whom he had providentionally met, felt constrained to interpose decided objections to the Society's issuing what had been selected from their own pens, and Dr. Smyth, for himself and Dr. Adger, interposed similar objections. These objections were alone insuperable, irrespective of the remonstrances months before presented from other sources.

But more than this. The question of issuing this Tract had become identified with the great political contest of the day : many at the north contending that the Society must issue Tracts in reference to duties or evils of slavery whatever might be the consequences; many others at the north resisting such a course as violating the Society's principles; and the south declining to receive such Tracts from the north, or longer to co-operate with the Society should it proceed to issue them.

Thus the responsibility of action was again thrown back on the Publishing Committee, where the Constitution originally devolved it, and where the Special Committee in their last resolution adopted by the Society, had also devolved it, should obstacles arise threatening "the widest and best usefulness of the Society throughout our whole country." The Society had given no warrant for its own dismemberment by a rash act of their Publishing Committee, who were solemnly pledged before God and man to issue only what is "calculated to receive the approbation of all evangelical Christians;" and all the members net only of the Publishing, but of the Executive Comnittee, were unanimous that in the existing state of the country the proposed treatise could not consistently be issued.

Truth requires that it should also be said, that in the recently published review and abstract of a proof copy of this treatise, in some way procured, some of the portions that had been most object to are omitted; and that objections, both from the south and the north, might be seriously felt against the treatise entire, which might not be perceived in this abstract. We doubt not that many conservative readers would individually accept the treatise as a whole; while yet it has been unquestionably evident that, as coming from the presses of this Society, what it does contain would be objected to by many evangelical Christians in one part of the country; and that its omission to condemn slavery itself or propose any thing directly for its removal, would by many in another part of the country be deemed no less ob-

It is also a mistaken idea, as those who have labored for the Society from the beginning well know, that there has ever been a day since the Society was formed by a union of Christians from the north and the south, when it could have issued Tracts specially on the subject of slavery without disunion and disruption. This is the clear testimony of the Committee, including the most active surviving founders. The Hon. Mr. Frelinghuysen, chalrman of the Society's Special Committee, in presenting their report said, in view of the appalling embarrassments of this subject, that " if ever men came togethe feeling how weak and dependent they were, he believed they did so," and that "by the blessing of God each one ascertained for himself that that line upon which the Society had been operating for more than thirty years, was one in which the Committee, with all their diversities of opinion, could concur." All that has since occurred but confirms the fact that on this line substantially, and this only, can the provisions of the constitution be complied with, and the Society move on harmoniously in its work. The questions about slavery in controversy among evangelical Christians, like those about prelacy or baptism, however momentous they may inherently be, are placed by the nature of the compact b youd the pale of its action.

The Committee are conscious of having made every suitable endeavor to issue this evangelical treatise on the "Duties of Masters," till it was found that the members and friends of the Society could not unite in it. It is not the loss of southern contributions that they have feared; liberal as those con stitutions have been, they have never equalled the Society's expend ture for the destitute in the southern and south-western states; but they have feared to violate the sacred trust reposed in them, and the con-tilution under which they act-to do what must sunder the Society with no warrant from the Society itself, and cut off from its benevolent regard millions, bond and free, whose spiritual wants cry to God and to us for the bread of life. W. A. II. Tract House, New York, November, 1857.

P. S. The above, from the senior Secretary, contains valuable information, showing clearly that the American Tract Society has had no idea of publish ing any thing on slavery offensive to the south, if a lowed to publish at all on the subject, for every one of the above authors are well known, true southern men. But the recent action on this subject by all the Executive Committee, with the voice of the people north and south before them, has now at led the course of this Society as to publishing on slavery, and that is, to publish nothing on it; and this course is in accordance with the 1st Art. of the Constitution, and the first and last Resolutions of f e Society last May, in which they are positively di ected to publish nothing, unless it "is calculated to receive the approbation of all evangelical Christians throughout our whole country." Thus t may be seen how the voice of Christians, or a Christian disapproving any publication, showing the tendency of it to be evil, at once decides against its being published.

What safeguard is this, by which every Christian may keep sectarian and sectional matter out of this Society! What all Christians are agreed in, and nothing more, the Society may publish. Doubtless the sainted John Summerfield was directed by God in wording this 1st Art, of the Constitution, for we learn that much time and prayer engaged his mind in reference to it.

It is highly gratifying to see that the recent unanimous action of the Executive Committee, in deciding to publish nothing about slavery, gives such extended satisfaction. In the last few weeks a great many throughout North Carolina have spoken to me freely on this. Such remarks as these are highly cheering. A prominent minister said, "I have looked closely to the action of the American Tract Society from its beginning to the present, and in view of the recent position not to publish on slavery, I am satisfied it has a greatly increased claim upon our confidence and support in the south as an institution for the united Christian effort so necessary to exert a general influence in evangelizing our country and the world." Others of prominence in piety and intelligence say, "We must now stand firm to this Society, as it so nobly proves itself firm to the south and our whole country." These friends prove themselves such by their recent liberal donations in amounts from $100, $50, down to the poor man's

We feel truly grateful for the expressed opinion and influence of different religious and political Editors in reference to the determined purpose of the Committee not to publish at all on slavery. Their notices of this action have contributed very greatly in removing fears prematurely awakened. With humble acknowledgments to God for thus opening our way, and in His strength alone, we continue to press on in our "work of faith and labor of love," to aid the ministry and other cheistian agencies in enlightening the minds and saving the souls of dying fellow-creatures. Yours truly, W. J. W. CROWDER, Gen. Ag't Am. Tr. Soc. for N. C. Raleigh, Nov. 9, 1857.

[From the New York Express of Tuesday afternoon.]

A New Sight in Wall Street, To-day. U. S. Troops on hand-both Soldiers and Marines. LIEUT, GEN. WINFIELD SCOTT AND AID -At 71 o'clock this morning a body of United States Troops came from Governor's Island and took up their quarters in the basement of the Custom House, They numbered 57 men, including non-commissioned officers. At the same time 57 marines, including officers, came from the Navy Yard and took up their quarters in the same place,-making 114 in all, to protect the Sub Treasury.

This is in pursuance of orders fr m Washington, and in consequence of the Force Demonstrat ons of so called working men in Wall street, the last week, with their insignificant insinuations or threats about the $20,000,000 in that street. The United States District Attorney, Mr. McKean, and the United States Marshal, Mr. Rynders, reported this whole subject to Washington, and a special cabinet was held thereon. Orders were then issued to Gen Scott to concentrate all necessary and available force for the protection of the-government property. Marines both in Washington and at Boston have been ordered to New York. Lieut. Col. Harris of the Marine Corps in Washington on duty, has been ordered to New York. Lieut, Gen. Winfield Scott, with his Aid, Col. Scott, came into Wall street a quarter to 12 o'clock,and were both, doubtless, in position to be useful, if their services were necessary. P. S. Both of these gentleman were in the Collector's Room, with the Collector, Mr. Schell, till about 2 o'clock.

THE FAIR.-We are happy 'o state that our Coun ty Fair was decidedly a success, in spite of hard times and of previous fears on that score. The articles exhibited were more numerous than last year, were generally pronounced to be of superior quality in most of the departments, and the attendance was very large. Every thing passed off pleasantly, and the Executive Committee, and especially the most efficient Secretary, feel rewarded for their arduous

On Thursday the Fair was visited by six military Companies in aniform, from the town and county, and by the pupils of the Female High School. On Friday the parade of the Fantasticals created much amusement, relieved as its absurdities were by some new and laughable features. On Friday the list of Premiums was read. It is pleasant to mention that a farmer of this county, one of the founders of the Society and its fast friend and working committee man, finds himself the recipient of ten premiums and one diploma, for eleven articles exhibited. This is one result of the spirit of emulation to excel produced by the Association. On Thursday the Annual Address was delivered to a very large and attentive audience by D. K. McRae, Esq. We were so much interested in the Address, that we asked to be allowed to publish it in the Observer. The Executive Committee also applied for the copy for pamphlet publication. We regret that Mr McRae felt constrained to decline its publication, on account of his fears that its literary execution (having been prepared in a very brief time amidst professional duties) was not so perfect as to justify its publication, -- Fay. FRENCH BROAD ROAD. - Maj. Turner has organized corps of Engineers, and sent them to locate the French Broad, Rail Road, beginning at the Tennessee line and working this way. It is the intention of the Company, we learn, to let out the work to contractors as soon as located. It will be pushed forward vigorously, and no doubt is entertained that the entire line will be graded to this point by the meeting of the next Legislature; when, if that body does not take hold of the work and help complete it, we shall advocate the secession of Western North Carolina, and the establishment of an independent sovereignty - owing al'egiance and paying tribute to no earthly power .- Asheville News.

DEAR SIR:-I have been requested to have the following statements published in your paper, in relation to the Scarlet Fever. If you think them worth publishing do so, if not, lay them in the fire. Some years ago I read a publication in your paper, from a gentleman in South-Carolina, recommending as a cure for Scarlet Fever, Jalap as a purge, and Red Pepper tea as drink, stating that under that treatment he had managed a family of 38 children, without the loss of one. A short time afterwards the disease came into my neighborhood, and in my family; I used the remedy successfully with about 12 children. It is now in my family and neighborhood. I have had two of the worst cases I have ever seen in my family or neighborhood! deranged for several days to a considerable extent. I used the same remedy (though it took repeated doses of the Jalap to operate on the bowels,) as successfully as ever. The above two cases have shed the entire skin, even to the soles of the feet. In most cases the disease yields by taking one dose of Jalap, The bowels should, in all cases, be well evacuated. and the tea drank for several days.

Yours respectfully, SILAS D. SHARPE. N. B. No swelling of the patient after recovery inder this treatment. SILAS D. SHARPE.

THE INAUGURATION.—The Hon, Isham G. Harris was inducted into the office of Governor of Tennessee on yesterday, at the Capitol, in the presence of the members of the two Houses of the General Assembly, and of a large concourse of citizens. The large collection of our fair country women, the handsome parade of the Cadets of the Military Academy, and the inspriing strains of music from the band procured for the occasion, lent a pleasing aspect to the general purposes of the day. The retiring and incoming Governors were escorted into the presence of the Assembly by the Speakers of the two Houses. The ceremony having been opened with prayer by Dr. Howell, of the first Baptist Church, Gov. Johnson proceeded to deliver a brief valedictory address, which was tollowed by the Inaugural of Gov. Harris. Both of these addresses were interesting and appropriate, and will be read with pleasure and approval by the public. The onth of office was administered by Hon. S. D. THE EFFECTS OF LIQUOR .- Adam Trexler, of this place, while on duty as a patrol, last week, under the influence of liquor, entered the premises of Mr. A. G. Trexler assaulted him with a large walking cane, and injured him so seriously as to endanger his life. The offender was arrested in default of bail, committed to prison to await his trial. Mr. Holder is believed now to be out of danger .- Sal. Watchman.
